Microsoft volume licensing invoices

> Important
> This article applies only to volume licensing (VL) invoices for non-Azure products bought under a direct VL agreement type, except for Microsoft Products & Services Agreements (MPSA), Federal Government, Special agreements, and Select Plus agreements.

The invoice for your VL subscription provides a summary of charges and instructions for how to pay your invoice. You can view the invoice online in the Microsoft 365 admin center. You can also download a copy of your invoice in the Portable Document Format (PDF) to send via email.

Before you begin

To access VL invoices in the admin center, you must meet one of the following conditions:

- If you're not an Enterprise Agreement (EA) or an Enterprise Subscription Agreement (EAS) customer, you must be the Bill To contact or have the Invoice Reader role for the corresponding contracts.
- If you're an EA or EAS customer, you must be a VL Administrator or an Invoice Reader for the corresponding contracts.

View or download your invoice

1. In the Microsoft 365 admin center go to the Billing > Your products page, then select the Volume licensing tab.
2. In the Contracts section, select View contracts.
3. Find the contract you want to see invoices for, select the three dots (More actions button), then select View Invoices.
4. On the Invoices page, you see the list of invoices generated for that contract. You can download the invoice PDF and invoice recon file. For information about the invoice recon file, see Overview of the invoice recon file later in this article.

Overview of the invoice PDF

Your invoice is a PDF that contains at least two pages:

- Page one is the billing Summary, and contains general information about the invoice, amount due, and payment instructions, if applicable. It also contains address information for your organization and high-level details about your order.

- Page two and beyond lists the individual products in your order. The last page contains the Net Amount, Sales Tax, and Total, which correspond with the amounts shown in the Summary section on page one.

Understanding your invoice

At the top of page one of your invoice, is the Summary section.

The following table explains the terms in the Summary section of your invoice.

Expand table

Term	Description
Invoice Number	A unique number generated by Microsoft that identifies your spending for the corresponding billing period.
Invoice Date	The date Microsoft generated the invoice.
PO Number	The purchase order (PO) number that you specify. The PO number can't be updated on an invoice that is already paid.
PO Date	Generally, the date when the order was entered into Microsoft systems.
Billing Period	The date range covered by the invoice.
Due Date	The date when the invoice payment is due to Microsoft.
Payment Terms	Explains the arrangement for when the invoice payment is due.
Total Amount Due	The total amount of all charges for the specified billing period.

Addresses

The addresses shown on your invoice might be different, depending on the size and configuration of your organization.

The following table explains the terms for the addresses section of your invoice.

Expand table

Term	Description
Sold To	The name and address of the organization that bought the subscription.
Bill To	The address of your billing department.
Ship To	Contains details of the location where the products are shipped or used for tax exemption, if applicable.
End Customer	The address where the service is used.

Billing Summary

The Billing Summary section gives the breakdown of the total amount due.

Total=Charges-Commitment Usage (if applicable)+Sales Tax

Billing Summary	(Amount in USD)
Charges	2,036,726.85
LESS: Commitment Usage	(64.65)
Net Amount	2,036,662.20
Sales Tax	0.00
Total (including Tax)	USD 2,036,662.20

Payment Instructions

The PAYMENT INSTRUCTIONS section contains the account information you need to send your wire transfer payment. This account information varies by country/region.

Billing details by product

Page two lists billing details by product, including unit price, quantity, commitment usage (if applicable), net charge, tax rate, tax amount, and total corresponding to each usage charge.

What type of invoices can I see?

You can see two types of invoice documents issued by Microsoft: debit invoices and credit memos.

The admin center doesn't display invoices for volume licenses purchased via Microsoft License Solution Partners or for orders relating to Microsoft Product and Services Agreement (MPSA), Federal Government, Special Agreements, and Select Plus agreement types.

Who receives volume licensing invoices by email?

The Bill To contact or participant named on the licensing contract receives invoices by email from `microsoft-noreply@microsoft.com`.

You can confirm who the Bill to contact is by going to Contracts > View contract details > Contacts.

Be sure to add `microsoft-noreply@microsoft.com` to your safe senders list or modify any existing email rules to avoid emails landing in your junk folder.

What is the difference between invoice PDF and invoice recon file?

The invoice PDF is a tax compliant document that provides a detailed bill for the selected billing period.

The invoice recon file provides line-item level details for better reconciliation and analysis for the selected billing period.

> Note
> Currently there's no functionality to send the invoice recon file by mail.

Why can't I see volume licensing invoices in the Microsoft 365 admin center?

There are several reasons that you might not see an invoice:

- The invoice isn't ready yet. Go to View Order Details to check the billing period.
- You don't have the correct Invoice Reader role for the account you signed in with.
- You only have access to invoices for License IDs or contracts for which you're the Bill To contact or have the Invoice Reader role.
- The invoice you're looking for relates to licenses purchased via a License Solution Partner, not to purchases made directly from Microsoft. To identify the partner or seller for a License ID, go to the Billing > Your Products page, select the Volume licensing tab, select Contracts, then select View contract details and look for Bill to or Channel Partner.

- You won't see invoices for parent agreements. Purchase orders and invoices are issued at License ID level under the parent program agreement.
- The Invoice created date must be November 18, 2022, or later.

How do I request permission to view volume licensing invoices?

The Invoice Reader VL role is automatically assigned in the admin center to the Bill To Contact named in the agreement contract submitted by your Microsoft partner or seller at the time of contract creation.

The Invoice Reader role can't be assigned or removed by another VL Administrator. To change the contact Bill To requires your Microsoft partner or seller to complete a Change of Contact Information Request to update the legal participants, or contacts. Contact your Microsoft partner or seller for more information.

> Note
> If you're an EA or EAS customer, the Invoice Reader role isn't assigned to the Bill To contact. The Invoice Reader VL role is assigned by the VL Administrator of the agreement in the Microsoft 365 admin center. The VL Administrator can view the invoices or assign the Invoice Reader role to any user.

How often and when am I billed?

Depending on the billing frequency you choose when you buy your subscription, you receive an invoice either upfront, monthly, every three months, every six months, or yearly. The amount of time since the last invoice date is the Billing Period and is on page one of the invoice. This time represents the date range during which charges accrue for the current invoice. If you made a change to your subscription outside of this date range, like adding or removing licenses, the associated charges appear on the invoice for the next billing period.

Why is my total due different from last billing period?

If the amount billed is different than expected, that can happen for a few reasons:

- You added or removed licenses from your subscription. Licenses changed mid-term are shown on the next invoice. You might see a credit and rebill for the previous service period to account for this change. For details about what this looks like in your invoice, see page two of the invoice and the recon file.
- You opted for a ramped pricing model.

- Your subscription renewed for a new term and the license price changed.

What is the tax rate applied to my invoice?

The tax rate applied to the invoice depends on the country/region of billing. You can check the invoice recon file for the tax rate applied to each item.

For more information, contact your Microsoft partner or seller.

Contact volume licensing support

> Important
> Microsoft Volume Licensing Support teams don't make changes to volume licensing orders or invoices.

For help finding VL invoices, Bill to Contacts and Invoice Readers, submit a case in the admin center > Help & Support . If you can't access the admin center, see Contact volume licensing support.

Customers should contact their Microsoft partner or seller for questions relating to the following issues:

- The accuracy of invoice or pricing applied to products
- The billing frequency or billing coverage periods
- The application of tax rates on invoices
- Changing the legal participant Bill to Contact on a License ID
- Submitting or canceling a new order or a renewal order

> Tip
> To identify the partner or seller for a License ID, go to the Billing > Your Products page, select the Volume Licensing tab, select Contracts, then select View contract details.
