Policy Summary

Our notice period policy ensures smooth transitions for all employees at Wingify Software Private Limited. Effective April 1, 2021, this policy outlines various aspects:

It defines the duration of notice and payout options if notice cannot be served and applies to all current and future full-time employees. During the notice period, employees are expected to fulfill offboarding duties, return company property, and adhere to leave protocols.

Deductions from Full & Final Salary may include laptop and asset values, loan adjustments, taxes, WFH allowance recovery, excess leaves, short notice periods, joining bonus recovery, and EPF/VPF deductions.

Notice periods vary based on Wingify levels and grades, with Grade A&B having a maximum duration of 90 days, Grade C having 60 days, and Grade D & E having 30 days.

This policy aims to ensure clarity, consistency, and fairness in handling notice periods across different circumstances, facilitating smooth transitions for all employees.

1. Purpose

Our notice period policy is designed to ensure smooth transitions, whether you're moving on or experiencing changes within the organization. It outlines the expected duration an employee must continue working after indicating their intention to leave, facilitating a proper handover of tasks and knowledge transfer. The primary goal is to provide clear guidance on the notice period's maximum duration and outline the payout options available if the notice period cannot be fully served. This approach promotes transparency and fairness in our employment practices, supporting effective planning and seamless transitions for both the departing employees and the company.

2. Applicability

The policy applies to all Permanent Employees, Interns & Contractors of Wingify Software Private Limited.

3. Policy

Our Notice Period Policy defines the requirements and expectations for employees serving their notice period in situations such as resignation, dismissal, redundancy, or retirement.

Effective April 1, 2021, this policy provides clear guidelines to ensure consistency, professionalism, and smooth transitions in all cases involving employee departures.
